Kākāriki colouring in

Kākāriki (red-crowned parakeet) are endemic to New Zealand (only found in New Zealand).

Kākāriki are a bright green chattering bird with a red crown they are about 28cm in length, and have been extinct on mainland Northland for several decades.

In 2017 Project Island Song released 40 Kākāriki on Moturua, with more planned for reintroduction to Urupukapuka in 2021.
